Graph Neural Networks for Mobile Money Fraud Detection

Fraud rings tend to form dense subgraphs with high transaction velocity.
Our dataset covers 2.3M transactions from three operators.
We compare GNN models with gradient boosting baselines.

Results

The GNN detects organised fraud with a large gain in recall.
Isolated fraud remains hard to detect without behavioural features.